BANDS PLAY AS WORKERS WALK OUT OF PLANTS

Union, G. M. C. Plot Course Of Conference Monday

Sit-Down Strikers Sing And Parade at Evacuation

Detroit, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Union "sit-down" strikers, with bands playing and banners flung out in the breeze, began evacuation of General Motors plants today as leaders optimistically charted a course for negotiations beginning Monday to settle the widespread automotive tie-up.

Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America whose strikes threw 115,000 of the giant automobile concern's wage-earners out of work, led 400 to 500 strikers from the Cadillac division plant here a short time after two score "sit-downers" emerged from the Fleetwood factory.

At about the same time 75 strikers vacated the Guide Lamp plant at Anderson, Ind.

A 12-piece band provided music for the singing workmen whose departure, coupled wth other scheduled evacuations, removed a "sore spot" in the strike picture which had blocked settlement negotiations for more than two weeks.

Not until Governor Frank Murphy, after riots at Flint, Mich., ordered out 2,300 national guardsmen and brought officials of General Motors and the union together in his office at Lansing, was agreement reached for removal of the "sit-downers" whom the corporation had termed "clearly trespassers."

In conference with William S. Knudsen, executive vice-president of General Motors, Martin today arranged final details of daily parleys for settlement of eight union demands, starting at 11 a. m. (EST) Monday in the corporation's offices here.

General Motors and the U.A.W.A. each will be represented by three persons and a secretary in the negotiations. After Monday, sessions will be held from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily with each side issuing a formal statement afterward.

A 15-day period for the negotiations was set aside by the agreement. Some observers expressed belief that lacking complete agreement at the expiration of that period, the negotiators might formulate agreement of what differences had been composed, and leave the others for arbitration.

The governor said today all General Motors employes in need because of the strike situation will receive state welfare aid.

The Fleetwood division "sit-downers" were the first to leave in today's evacuations. Singing parodies of "Hinkey Dinkey Parley Voo" addressed to General Motors executives, they paraded out as two union sound trucks blared instructions and advice. One striker carried a banner inscribed, "G. M. today; Ford tomorrow."

They had been in the plant since Jan. 12. At the Cadillac plant, they were joined by "sit-down" strikers who have held that factory since Jan. 8. The band played "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here."

The two groups, accompanied by women and children of their families, [illegible]ed for a mass meeting.

New York Negroes Fear Race Problem Result of Slaying

New York, Jan. 16—(AP)—"Expressing alarm at what they call a "racial problem" arising out of the hammer slaying of Mrs. Mary Harriet Case," a delegation of negroes visited the man charged with the crime today in an effort to determine whether they should help him.

The prisoner, Major Greene, 33 year old negro porter, has been indicted on a charge of beating and strangling the pretty Queens housewife last Monday in a robbery attempt.

The negro delegation, headed by the Rev. Sylvester Carruthers, Brooklyn pastor, and George E. Wibecan, president of a community group, said many negroes had been discharged from domestic jobs in apartment houses and private homes since the killing.

They expressed fear hundreds of other dismissals might result.

If counsel decides there is a reasonable doubt, they said they would raise money to aid in Greene's defence. Otherwise, they declared they would have nothing to do with the case.

FASCIST BOMB RAID DESTROYS U. S. CONSULATE

Building At Malaga, Spain, Ruined, No One Injured

Gibraltar, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Herbert O. Williams, United States consul here, said tonight the United States consulate at Malaga, Spain, had been wrecked in a raid by Spanish Fascist planes.

The man in charge of the consulate, which was closed last Sept. 20, was not hurt and the archives were saved, Williams said. It was understood the records would be sent to the Gibraltar consulate.

(The state department in Washington, announcing the building was wrecked by an aerial bombing, said that no Americans were endangered and that the date of the attack was not known.)

Two Spanish government planes dropped bombs today near an Algeciras hotel from which Gonzalo Queipo De Llano, southern Fascist commander, was believed directing an insurgent offensive.

Soaring over the city—just across the Bay of Algeciras from Gibraltar—at 2:15 p. m., the airmen dropped their high-explosive projectiles close to the Hotel Reina Cristina. Damage was slight.

Fascist land batteries and a gunboat fired on the raiders. The planes fled eastward toward Malaga.

Queipo De Llano's army of 20,000 was driven toward government-held Malaga after seizing the city of Estepona.

Accounts reaching Gibraltar said Fascist military hospitals at Algeciras and Linea were packed with insurgent fighters wounded in the push.

The Fascists battered their way through strong government opposition, reinforced by militiamen from Madrid, to within six miles of Marbella, which lies about 30 miles southeast of Malaga.

Court Justice Is Ignorant of Law

Washington, Jan. 16—(AP)—Supreme Court Justice Willis Van Devanter frankly pleaded ignorance of a duck law today on learning that federal officials had recommended that he be charged with hunting without a $1 stamp.

The 77 year old jurist said he did not know that a stamp should have been attached to his license when he went shooting last month in Virginia.

But Ira N. Gabrielson, chief of the Bureau of Biological survey indicated that ignorance of the law was no excuse. Gabrielson said the Bureau had recommended to the solicitor of the Agriculture Department that a charge be filed.

Van Devanter is ranked in the "conservative" bloc of the Supreme court. He was one of the Justices who invalidated the AAA.

MARCH 4 SELECTED BY DEMOCRATS FOR DINNER

Washington, Jan. 16—(AP)—The Democratic National Committee has selected March 4—anniversary of President Roosevelt's first inauguration—for nation-wide, simultaneous dinners aimed at wiping out the party's half million dollar deficit.

Chairman James A. Farley and Treasurer W. Forbes Morgan of the committee said in a joint statement that the dinners, priced at from $100 a plate down, represented "the most democratic method of raising party funds."

This year the number one dinner will be at a Washington hotel, with President Roosevelt attending and addressing that and all other dinners by radio hookup.

The per plate costs of the dinners are fixed at $100 for the number-one gathering, $50 at a New York hostelry, $25 for some other communities, $10 for others and $3 as the rock-bottom price.

STRIKE LEADERS HAILED IN COURT ON RIOT CHARGE

National Guardsmen Kept In Flint Until Workers Leave

Governor Murphy Orders no Arrests of Pickets, Strikers

Flint, Mich., Jan. 16—(AP)—Four leaders of the United Automobile Workers of America stood mute in court today on charges of inciting a riot, while 2,300 national guardsmen, their demobilization suddenly countermanded, continued to occupy the city.

Mayor Harold E. Bradshaw said he had suggested to Governor Frank Murphy that the guardsmen remain at least until two striker-occupied General Motors plants here are evacuated although, he said, "I do not expect violence and neither does the governor."

Union leaders announced today that 1,500 men who have held Fisher Body plant No. 1 since December 30 would march from the plant at 1:30 P. M. tomorrow. At 2:30 P. M., the 450 men who have occupied Fisher plant No. 2 will march out. The "stay-in-strikers will attend a mass meeting at 8:30 P. M., to be addressed by Homer Martin, president of the UAW.

Robert Travis, chief organizer for the UAW in the Flint area; Victor and Roy Reuther, brothers, and Henry Kraus, editor of the Flint Auto Worker, stood mute before Municipal Judge Edwin D. Mallory on charges of inciting to riot.

They and three other union leaders against whom warrants have been issued are accused of directing the strikers on the night of the riot, through an amplifier mounted on an automobile. Officers said they were told the other three, B. J. Wilick, of Akron, publicity director for the UAW; Walter Towner, of St. Louis, Mo., and William Carney, of Akron, had left the state.

The four men who were arranged supplied bond of $500 each for preliminary hearing January 21. Prosecutor Joseph R. Joseph said he would prosecute them "to the limit" on the grounds that they "touched a spark to a disorder that might have been much worse."

The maximum penalty, in the event of conviction, is five years imprisonment or one year imprisonment and a $5,000 fine.

The prosecutor announced he was dropping charges of rioting preferred against 14 of the strikers, 13 of whom were injured Monday night. That, he said, was in accordance with the desires of Governor Murphy. Ten of the strikers were released from the county jail today. The other four still are in Hurley hospital.

The prosecutor indicated that "John Doe" warrants issued for strikers within the plant also would be dropped, as requested by the Governor.

Governor Marland Gets Threatening Extortion Letter

Cites Pistol Prowess As Answer to Demand for $5,000

Oklahoma City, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Gov. E. W. Marland, threatened in a $5,000 extortion note, cited his pistol powers tonight and declared he would be his own guard.

"I am one of the best pistol shots in Oklahoma and I can take care of myself," he replied to a penciled note signed "Bilk" threatening him and Mrs. Marland.

Dwight Brantley, in charge of the Oklahoma office of the federal bureau of investigation, assigned agents to work with state crime bureau operatives.

After posting a $500 reward for information on the note writer, and giving the note to the crime bureau, Marland refused to increase the executive mansion guard.

'I don't need any more guards than I have already," he said.

The note was in an envelope postmarked here yesterday.

It demanded $5,000 in unmarked bills as "a donation" and said a later note would outline procedure for delivery. It directed Marland to place an advertisement in the Oklahoma City News saying: "Business deal gone through. Slim."

The note referred to Marland as a "rich man," and warned "if you say anything to the police" it would "be too bad for you and your wife."

Marland, once wealthy head of the $60,000,000 Marland Oil Company, laughed at the rich man reference.

FORCING PRICES

Washington, Jan. 16—(AP)—The department of agriculture became a heavy buyer on the egg market today in the hope of restoring prices which have dropped 14 cents a dozen in the last week.

All eggs purchased will be distributed to persons on relief rolls.

Secretary Wallace said he acted on authority given him in the Amended Agricultural Adjustment Act. This provides that 30 percent of customs receipts may be used to stimulate consumption of surplus farm commodities.

Farmers were said to be selling their hens because of low egg prices and high feed costs.

Dr. Mattson Charges Murder of His Son To Fiend and Accomplice

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Dr. W. W. Mattson tonight charged the kidnaping and brutal murder of his son, Charles, to a bungling fiend and an accomplice who became frightened and destroyed the boy because he "knew too much."

While federal and local officials weeded out arrested suspects from coast to coast, the physician expressed the conviction that the criminal would be "brought to justice," and said he then would tell more about the vicious crime.

Sacramento, Calif., police today released Arthur Madsen, 26, former member of a public works camp at Tillamook, Ore., after questioning him in the case. Police Captain Fritz Kaminsky said a careful check of Madsen's recent movements convinced him Madsen had no connection with the case.

Seattle officers said Fred Orrin Haynes, former California convict who surrendered yesterday after being sought three days, virtually was eliminated as a suspect.

The physician significantly referred in his statement to the kidnaper as "this man and whoever his colleague is." Once more this emphasized that more than one man was being hunted for the crime.

He reiterated everything possible was done to ransom the boy and expressed the belief the tragic end would have been the same had the case been handled differently.

"It is possible," he asked, "that little Charles was sacrificed to further stimulate previously enraged public to the enactment of even more drastic laws. Both in the prevention of and the punishment of this awful crime?

"If this is true, we feel that Charles shall not have died in vain."

His remarks were made in a signed statement given out at a press conference.

Federal agents and police redoubled their hunt today for the kidnap lair in the vicinity of Everett, Wash.

An Everett watchman's report that he heard a child's scream the night of Jan. 6, possible about the time the 10-year-old victim was slain, spurred the hideout hunt.

The informant, whose name was withheld, said he thought at the time the scream might have come from children at play.

The physician thanked the public for aid and sympathy, and said he wished to forget the tragedy as soon as possible and return to his practice here Monday after a week-end with his family at nearby Mt. Rainier.

Dr. Mattson described as "without foundation," a theory that a revengeful former patient might have kidnaped and slain the boy.

"I have no enemies, I am sure, who would perpetrate the crime," he said.

He said neither the activities of police or press affected Charles' welfare while in the kidnapers' hands.

"When all of the innermost facts of the ransom notes, efforts at ransoming, etc., are finally released for publication, the public will know that everything humanly possible was done to ransom poor little Charles, but that owing to conditions over which neither I nor the law enforcement agencies had any control, he was destroyed even before a payoff could be satisfactorily consummated."

Park Avenue Plays "Farming" in Romp At Waldorf Astoria

Society Brings Barnyard Occupants to the City for Unusual Party

New York, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Park Avenue played at being farmer lads and lasses tonight, donning ginghams, calicos and overalls to romp in the barnyard built in the ball room of one of the city's largest (Waldorf Astor) hotels and to drink champagne which they "milked" from a mechanical cow.

With a bow to their country cousins, the folk from the gilded domiciles of the Avenue and Long Island imported real cows, sheep, hogs, geese and a donkey to give the truly rural touch to the party.

Giver of the party was buxom Elsa Maxwell, play entrepreneur.

The honor guests were Mrs. James A. Corrigan, socially prominent in London, New York and Paris, and Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, wife of the publisher.

Blithely, the invitations besought the guests to come to do honor to "two old cowgirls."

For the affair Miss Maxwell imported Tom Bevington, of Chardon, Ohio, who was touted as the champion hog caller of that maple sugar metropolis.

From Leonard Hanna, of the Cleveland Hannas, came six carefully scrubbed and perfumed prize hogs for Bevington to yodel to.

Allan Ryan sent a cow down from his stock farm.

Donald Ogden Stewart, the humorist, started one of his prize cows toward New York to participate but at Albany, Miss Maxwell averred, the cow had a calf and they had to take it back.

The party really got under way at midnight with a promise of getting louder and funnier toward dawn.

Guests entered the jade room over a stile, entering the "barnyard." They gamboled in hayricks. They drew foaming beer, instead of water, from a simulated old-fashioned well. A hill billy orchestra played.

The lissome beauties of society took part in cow-milking and husband calling contests.

Three States Vote On Liquor Question

Atlanta, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Prohibition repeal, approved by 42 states, returned to the forefront of legislative consideration today in three of the nation's remaining dry states.

While Alabama, Georgia and Tennessee studied varied repeal proposals, one state which opened the doors to liquor—Arkansas—had before it a move to shut alcoholics out again.

North Carolina, where 18 counties are wet and 82 dry, had a legislative battle shaping up over suggestions to change its 1935 liquor act.

In the three other states holding out on repeal, Mississippi, Oklahoma and Kansas—the issue simmered quietly.

Georgia legislators had bills drawn calling for state-wide repeal. They plan to introduce them later in the session.

The North Carolina fight is expected to result from a plan calling for a state-wide referendum on prohibition. Representatives of the 18 already-wet counties announced they would oppose it.

Also before the North Carolina legislature is a bill asking for a state board to operate distilleries, buy and sell liquor.

END OF STORK DERBY IS DELAYED BY COURTS

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 16.—(AP)—The pot of gold at the end of the stork derby rainbow which a dozen prolific mothers thought they had reached last Hallowe'en, was still a long court journey ahead today.

Lawyers said that further hearings on the disposition of the late Charles Vance Miller's $500,000 award to the mother who bore the most children in a ten-year period probably would not be held until late next week, and might go over to the week after.

The "mother's clause" of the eccentric barrister's will was ruled by Mr. Justice Middleton to be valid in the first court test last November. The justice, however, said that illegitimate children should not be counted.

Both the points on which the justice ruled will be challenged in the hearing which, though set for Monday, was expected to be postponed.

$14,000 Bar of Gold Vanishes From Ship

New York, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The manner in which a $14,000 bar of gold vanished from a ship at sea mystified the police tonight.

Deep fog and ocean storms beset the liner from Paris to New York.

For three days the police kept the disappearance secret, to no avail.

All that anyone knew was that the gold was aboard the French liner Paris when she left Havre, and that it was missing when she docked in New York.

One theory was that the precious bar was removed from the ship's hold while the Paris lay fogbound in quarantine last Wednesday and Thursday.

A small boat could have slipped up to the liner's side in the soupy weather.

But the gold was in the ship's guarded strong box, which crew members swore had not been opened.

The queer part of it was that only the one bar was taken, for the ship carried a gold bullion cargo estimated in some quarters at almost six million dollars.

The theft was discovered by a sharp-eyed driver of a mail truck after having gone unnoticed during unloading of the boat.

He saw an eight-inch slit in one of a group of parcel post bags assigned to the Irving Trust Company of New York, and refused to accept it.

The bag was supposed to carry two bars of bullion. When examined, it carried only one.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS

Chicago, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Chicago, home of the famous Lindbergh air beacon; visible for 75 miles, still employs 31 lamp-lighters.

Questioned about this quaint occupation, in vogue here when Lincoln was nominated for the presidency, an official of the city department of gas and electricity said today the operating costs of gas street lights were higher but that the city lacked an appropriation for the installation of additional electric lighting.

ROOSEVELT TO SOUND KEYNOTE AT INAUGURAL

Mighty Throng Will Witness Ceremony In Washington

Thousands Crowd Into Capital; Hotels at Premium

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—President Roosevelt will stand before a mighty throng in front of the capitol next Wednesday noon and renew his oath of office.

Then, in a brief address to which millions in this and other lands may listen, he will sound the keynote for his second administration.

What that keynote will be has been only hinted by his recent appeal for cooperation from the courts, for a more liberal interpretation of the constitution and for new federal attacks upon industrial and other problems he deems national in scope.

The vanguard of thousands who will join in celebrating the second Roosevelt inauguration already is crowding into Washington. Buildings are bedecked with bunting and workmen are rushing completion of covered stands from which those who wish to pay $3.50 to $10 a seat may watch governors, military units and bands parade down Pennsylvania avenue after the ceremony on Capitol Hill. Hotel accommodations are at a premium.

Best indications are that the president's traditional "weather luck" will hold for the occasion. The weather bureau said in its weekly outlook that rains expected the first part of next week probably would end by Wednesday. An added prediction of falling temperatures recalled Mr. Roosevelt's recent assertion that he could "take it" if the day proved cold.

Fair skies will mean that an old Dutch Bible long in the president's family may be used in the ceremony, as it was when Mr. Roosevelt took the oath four years ago.

The chief executive will place his left hand on the Bible, held by the Clerk of the Supreme Court, while Chief Justice Hughes administers this oath:

"I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will to the best of my ability preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States."

If the day is rainy, another Bible will be used.

For the first time in history, according to Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson of the inaugural committee, the United States army band will play a non-military air during the parade.

Seek New Trial for J. J. Hamilton After Murder Conviction

Jury Fixes Punishment for Double Slaying at Fifty Years

Belleville, Ill., Jan. 16.—(AP)—A new trial will be sought for John J. Hamilton, East St. Louis member of the St. Clair county board of review, R. Emmett Costello, defense attorney announced today after a circuit court jury convicted the former constable of murder in the slaying of Thomas Grissom, union business agent. Punishment was fixed at 50 years in prison.

"There's nothing to say," Hamilton said on his return to jail after hearing the verdict.

The jury deliberated ten hours. Foreman Joseph Denzler said all of the jurors agreed on conviction after several hours consideration of the case, but did not decide on the punishment until this morning.

Hamilton testified he shot Grissom in self defense in East St. Louis last August 2, and that his secret wife, Mrs. Wilma Woods Hamilton was accidentally killed.

He was tried for the murder of his wife last October but the jury failed to reach an agreement.

"The retrial of this case had been set for Monday, but late today Hamilton's counsel and States Attorney L. P. Zerweck agreed on an indefinite continuance, pending outcome of the defense motion for a new trial."

POPE'S APPEARANCE IS DELAYED FOR 4 MONTHS

Vatican City, Jan. 16—(AP)—Pope Pius' illness will prevent him from participating in vatican ceremonies for nearly four months, even if his recent slight improvement continues, sources close to the pontiff predicted tonight.

Their conclusion was based on the tentative setting of May 11 as the date for inauguration of the new pontifical academy of science—originally scheduled for Feb. 6—to permit the holy father to attend.

Father Agostino Gemelli, a physician who was called urgently to the vatican when the 79-year-old pope became seriously ill with partial paralysis of the legs and other old-age ailments, said after talking with his holiness that he believed he was getting better, very slowly.

Riviera Folk Hope Edward Will Visit Cannes Villa Soon

Cannes, France, Jan. 16.—(AP)—A sudden dash of the Duke of Windsor to the woman for whom he sacrificed his throne would be no surprise to most Riviera folk.

Repeated and emphatic statements made in behalf of Mrs. Wallis Simpson that she has no plans for seeing the duke before spring and that in no event will he come to Cannes, have not dispelled the local belief that he may show up at any moment.

Why, they ask, should two persons who showed a disregard for conventionalism to the extent of shaking an empire, now become so scrupulous on the score?

Why, they ask, should a man who loves a woman so much that he gave up his kingdom for her, and who surely must long to see her, deprive himself of her company for months?

The coming of the former king would not necessarily prevent the granting of Mrs. Simpson's final decree of divorce. In the period between the granting of the decree nisi and the final decree, Mrs. Simpson is put on good behavior. But she is not forbidden to see any man; not even one who has publicly declared his love for her.

In predicting the coming of the duke before spring, Cannes folk admit they are fathering the thought with the wish.

They don't deny they would like to see him come—the visiting foreigners because it would provide a new thrill and the local people because it would be good for business.

TVA, UTILITIES FEUD BREAKS IN NATIONAL BOARD

One Member Proposes Truce With Private Power

Washington, Jan. 16. —(AP)— The under-cover feud between Chairman Arthur E. Morgan and Director David Lilienthal of the Tennessee Valley authority burst into the open tonight, when Dr. Morgan publicly proposed a national truce with private power interests.

Dr. Morgan suggested a policy known to be in conflict with the "no surrender" attitude of his younger board member.

"I believe we should deal with the private power companies to the end of eliminating abuses, while preserving the right of the people to acquire their own power service by public ownership if they choose," Dr. Morgan said in a statement.

The rangy educator abstained from mentioning his colleague but he asked pointedly:

"Shall men who administer public projects drift into an attitude of a fight to a finish against the private power companies?"

Dr. Morgan's statement raised three major questions for an immediate appraisal:

1. Will the president shake up the TVA board to assure smooth administration, and if he does, whom will he eliminate, Lilienthal or Morgan? Lilienthal had a brief white house audience yesterday and announced himself satisfied with the result.

2. Is the administration ready to abandon the agreement with private power interests, under which Commonwealth and Southern Corporation is buying TVA power?

3. If it should abandon the agreement which expires in effect when the Commonwealth and Southern contract ends February 3, would that step indicate an immediate struggle to the finish with the utilities.

Lilienthal declined to make any comment on his chairman's statement. The aggressive young director, who revamped the utilities commission of Wisconsin for the LaFollette group a few years ago, is known to feel, however, that his efforts to formulate policy in the valley have reflected the views of the president.

Madrid Defenders Repulse Fascists

Madrid, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Socialist defenders of Madrid clung to their barricades in the northwestern Montola sector today, twice throwing back Fascists who hurled hand grenades as they charged.

Government officers said the Fascists were "no nearer capturing Madrid than two months ago."

A Febus (Spanish News Agency dispatch from Malaga, meanwhile, asserted government land forces, aided by airplanes, had given stiff resistance to Fascists advancing from Estepona on the way to Malaga.

Planes and warships joined the insurgent troops in the southern fighting, the dispatch said.

It added a Fascist airplane loosed two bombs on Malaga but that they did not explode.

Women who insisted on remaining with their men in Madrid were told by Margaret Nelken, member of parliament, in a newspaper article, that they were "nuisances" because their presence was a drain on the city's supplies. The government recently began gradual compulsory evacuation of women and those unable to fight.

ANN HARDING, MUSICIAN ARE TO WED SOON

Brilliant Orchestra Leader, Actress Find Romance

Miss Harding "Distressed," Admits Wedding Soon

London, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Film actress Ann Harding, who fled America to keep the custody of her daughter and incidentally pick up a bit of movie money in England, has found romance as well—with an American.

The golden-haired former wife of Harry Bannister will wed shy Werner Janssen, brilliant orchestra conductor and composer who fought his way up from New York's west side cabarets to the podium of the New York philharmonic.

Distressed because her second romance had become public, Miss Harding indicated the wedding would be soon but would not say when or where. She now is at Blackpool, one-night stand in her tour of English provincial theaters with a renewal of Bernard Shaw's Candida.

Janssen, who visited her in Liverpool earlier this week, secluded himself in the country, having completed a symphonic engagement in London.

News of the couple's engagement became known with their filing of intent to wed at a London registry office.

They had planned to keep the wedding plans secret.

Miss Harding is 34, Janssen 37.

Both have been married previously. Miss Harding and Bannister were divorced in 1934. Janssen's first marriage ended in divorce last December.

Janssen was the first native New Yorker to conduct the New York philharmonic. He was guest director the season of 1935, and departed that spring for appearances in Europe, where he first won acclaim five years before.

Janssen ran away from home to continue his pursuit of music. He played in New York cabarets, bars and dance halls to get money.

At 27 he combined jazz and the classical motif in a symphonic poem, "New Year's Eve," that was presented by the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra under Leopold Stokowski.

Three years later, 1930, he won the Frederic A. Juilliard Fellowship for musical composition from the American Academy in Rome.

In Europe he spread the gospel of the composer Sibelius and became known for his advocacy of the musical modernists.

Coroner's Juries Start Inquiry On Army Plane Crash

Bodies Raised From Illinois River Found Badly Mangled

Hennepin, Ill., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Two coroner's juries were impanneled at nearby Princeton late today to investigate the deaths of two Massachusetts National Guard fliers whose bodies were recovered from the cockpit of an army observation plane raised from the bottom of the Illinois river.

The fliers, Lieut. Frank Otis, of Boston, and Sergt. John C. Gibbons, Natick, Mass., were killed Monday night when their plane plunged into the river while enroute to the home of Lieut. Otis' parents at Moline, Ill.

The juries will investigate the deaths separately. After viewing the mangled bodies of the two fliers the jurors were excused until Monday when the inquiry is to be resumed.

Wreckage of the plane, hauled from the river bottom this afternoon, was loaded aboard an army truck and taken to Chicago where it was to be examined by a board of inquiry of the Illinois National Guard in an effort to determine the cause of the crash.

Blood tests were to be made by Dr. W. A. Nix at the request of national guard officers in an effort to ascertain if the fliers might have been overcome by carbon monoxide fumes from a faulty motor.

The body of Lieut. Otis was taken to Moline tonight where funeral services will be held.

Salvage workers who raised the wrecked plane to the surface said Lieut. Otis' body, in the forward seat, had been decapitated and that Sergeant Gibbons' head had been badly crushed. The left arm of each man lay limp over the side of the cockpit.

The workers suggested an explosion in the engine when the plane struck the river bottom might have mangled the bodies.

SLUM CLEARANCE

Lima, Peru, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Eighty-seven new houses which rent for $12 to $16 a month, built by the government for workers and their families in a slum-clearance project, formally were opened today by President Oscar Benavides.

Behind the new buildings which have modern equipment, lie a large swimming pool and fields for soccer, volleyball and basketball.

The government will retain ownership of the houses.

It was with genuine regret that Jacksonville citizens learned that Chalmers Giffen is to leave this community. For 11 years Mr. Giffen has been a valuable citizen of the city. Many did not await his departure to comment on his many admirable qualities. Mr. Giffen often has been referred to as an example of good citizenship.

He took a sincere interest in the community. He has been identified with religious, business and social organizations, which will miss his help and enthusiasm. It comes natural for Mr. Giffen to be friendly, to lend his aid and influence to movements designed to improve the community.

As chairman of the retail division of the Chamber of Commerce for two years, Mr. Giffen had much to do with shaping the policies of business in this city. He is a solid, conservative leader, a man who inspires confidence of his associates.

Mr. and Mrs. Giffen came to Jacksonville when their family was young. Their children have grown to manhood in this city. The Giffens have made a place for themselves in Jacksonville through their marked ability to fit into the picture, and become a part of the community.

The best wishes of Jacksonville and its people will follow Chalmers Giffen to Watseka, Ill., where he will assume management of a mercantile establishment owned by the same company with which he has been associated for 16 years.

The "Forgotten Man"

We used to hear a great deal in politics about the "forgotten man."

The real forgotten man—and there are plenty of them in Jacksonville and elsewhere—is not in politics. He makes politics, however, for he is the fellow who makes the wheels go around.

The forgotten man, according to Silas H. Strawn, former president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, is the "man who earns his living and supports his family."

"He asks no favors; he appeals not to charity or sentiment," he said. "He makes his contracts and performs them. He pays his share of the ever-increasing burden of taxation.

Mr. Strawn further said that he has no sympathy with the idea that those who are prosperous and respectable are to blame for those who are not, and that there is a continuous obligation on the part of those who have done their duty toward those who have not done their's.

This rather puts the forgotten man in a new light. All credit to him. Without him we would have no government, no business, no prosperity, no tax problems.

He is the great majority, thank goodness, and we owe him a debt of gratitude. He is you, and he is our neighbor. He pays the freight as he goes along through life.

Skating With Safety

Ice skating has always been looked upon with disfavor by many parents, who have visions of their children falling through the ice. The sport is dangerous, to a certain degree, because children often take chances on thin ice or around breaks in ice or creeks and ponds. There have been many tragedies because skaters used poor judgment as to the time or place to pursue the sport.

Construction of outdoor rinks in Jacksonville, where no one can "fall through," or even get wet, is therefore an excellent move on the part of certain officials and citizens. The Illinois College athletic field was offered for this purpose, and yesterday the snow was scraped from the field, which was then flooded by the fire department.

A little more cold weather and skating may be enjoyed there with perfect safety. The element of danger has been removed. Parents cannot deny their sons and daughters the recreation of going skating on grounds that they "might fall in and drown."

Another rink is being placed in readiness at the Jefferson grade school grounds. Thus, two winter playgrounds in opposite sides of the city have been provided for the young people. On these rinks they can skate to their hearts' delight, with no fear of dangers attendant to skating on frozen streams or lakes.

Look Them Over

We publish in this issue the first of a series of photographs and brief sketches of both Republican and Democratic candidates who have entered the municipal primaries. The series will be continued for several weeks, until all of the candidates have been "introduced," and their pictures printed.

The Journal and Courier have for a period of years followed this custom of calling attention to city and county candidates. We believe the citizens are entitled to information of this kind, which they can weigh in their minds, and with it form opinions as to the ability of the various aspirants for offices. The sketches, however, will be a strict statement of facts, with no attempt to feature the strong or weak points of any man.

The primary election is still more than a month away, but now is a good time to be thinking things over. Study the candidates, compare them, learn what they stand for. Then be sure to vote in the primary on Tuesday, February 23.

Nominating and electing a mayor and half of the alderman for a four year term is serious business. Jacksonville doesn't want to make mistakes. If we do our thinking now, we stand a better chance to fill these offices with competent men.

A Story of Gratitude

There is a derisive statement you can fling at fire fighters if you want to arouse their indignation and ire, and we don't blame them for getting mad. The statement, "Well, you saved the foundation, anyway," is enough to make any fireman stand up and fight. Everyone knows that firemen do the best they can, and if they have half a chance, they will check flames and save property.

But when such a statement was uttered recently by a member of the Frederick, Ill., Christian church, to Roy Patterson, fire truck driver at Beardstown, it carried a different interpretation. As a matter of fact, it meant a chicken dinner for members of the Beardstown and Rushville fire departments.

All of which is a rather roundabout way of announcing that next Wednesday night Beardstown and Rushville fire fighters will be guests of honor at a chicken dinner in the new Frederick Christian church.

The old church burned about a year ago, and the two fire departments were called to help battle the blaze. Since the building was not saved, the Beardstown fire truck driver was considerably surprised the other day when one of the church ladies called and invited the department members to the dinner.

"Why, we don't deserve a dinner for fighting that fire," the firemen told the lady after she explained the meal was to be the ladies' way of showing their appreciation to the firemen. "If the building had been saved we might deserve something," the Beardstown fireman continued, "but since it burned to the ground, due to having a big start, we don't believe Frederick owes us a thing."

"But you saved the foundation," explained the lady," and we built the new church on the old foundation. Besides, you saved what was in the basement."

This is an excellent example of gratitude. The firemen didn't save the church—they tried, but the fire had too much headway. But the women of the congregation appreciated their efforts. They are going to convey that appreciation at a gathering that promises to be a unique event.

Railroads at the Junction

"American railroads are at the junction point, with Congress likely to decide whether they are to remain under private control, or to be forced directly or indirectly into government ownership," declared the Transportation Conference in a recent statement.

"The railroads except the reintroduction of Senator Wheeler's bill authorizing the government to acquire and run the roads, and they are also confronted with a drive by labor groups for a 30 hour week and other "make-work" measures adding heavily to their financial and regulatory burden.

"Meanwhile the roads are resolutely facing their problems of capital needs, refunding and repayment of debts, meeting huge and rising taxes, recouping some of their depression losses as traffic picks up with the business revival and improved rail service; adjusting fixed charges to earning power rehabilitating their properties and rolling stock; working toward necessary reorganization anl consolidations, and, many of them struggling with bankruptcy or the threat of incolvency.

"Not only is the future of rail transport at stake, but the formulation of a national transportation policy to include all forms of transport waits on the legislative developments affecting the railroads."

Grave as these statements are, there is no exaggeration in them—they reflect the opinions of numerous independent commentators who have studied and analyzed the transportation problem.

It is safe to say that the American people do not want government ownership of the greatest single industry—yet there is a dangerous possibility that if Congress cripples the rails with burdensome new laws or fails in its duty to equalize all transportation legislation advocates will urge socialization of the rails as a substitute for private enterprise.

Much is before Congress—many problems demand attention. None of those problems is more important or more directly affects the public welfare than the transportation problem.

A Safe Driver

A recent issue of a trade bulletin published by Swift & Company devotes praise to R. B. Walker of Murrayville, for his record as a careful driver. Mr. Walker is in the employe of the produce department of the local plant, and is "on the road" practically every day. Traveling under all kinds of weather conditions, in and out of a large number of towns, he has never been involved in a chargeable accident.

Mr. Walker has driven one truck 136,000 miles, and the original tires are still on the truck. The upkeep of the vehicle has been remarkably low. "Undoubtedly, Mr. Walker's care of the truck is directly responsible for his record," the company bulletin declares.

Here is a case of a man who travels much; who uses caution on the road, and keeps his vehicle in first class condition. Driving is his business. He has made a success of it because he knows that it pays to play safe.

Owners of pleasure cars could take a cue from Mr. Walker in safe driving. If he can spend years in piloting a large truck over the highways without accident, surely the drivers who travel only occasionally, have an equal opportunity to steer clear of trouble.

An Eye Toward Next Fall

Morgan County's Fair, one of the largest county expositions in Illinois, lasts only a few days. But it is not hatched on the spur of the moment, nor do the officials of the association while away the winter months without doing plenty of thinking about the forthcoming fair.

The big grand stand at the fair grounds is covered by ice and snow; Dan Patch in his prime couldn't pace the half mile oval in two minutes, unless equipped with "creepers"; the consession space resembles the Great North woods in winter attire; but plans for the 1937 fair are under way.

Committees for the next fair will be appointed at an adjourned meeting of the fair board Tuesday evening. These men and women will take hold long before summer comes, and get things into shape for the big doings next fall.

The Morgan County Fair has grown and become a permanent institution because of the interest of a large group of citizens, who know what that oft-times abused word, cooperation, means. When the snow flies, they are thinking about the next fair. When fall arrives, Morgan county gets another big, successful exposition.

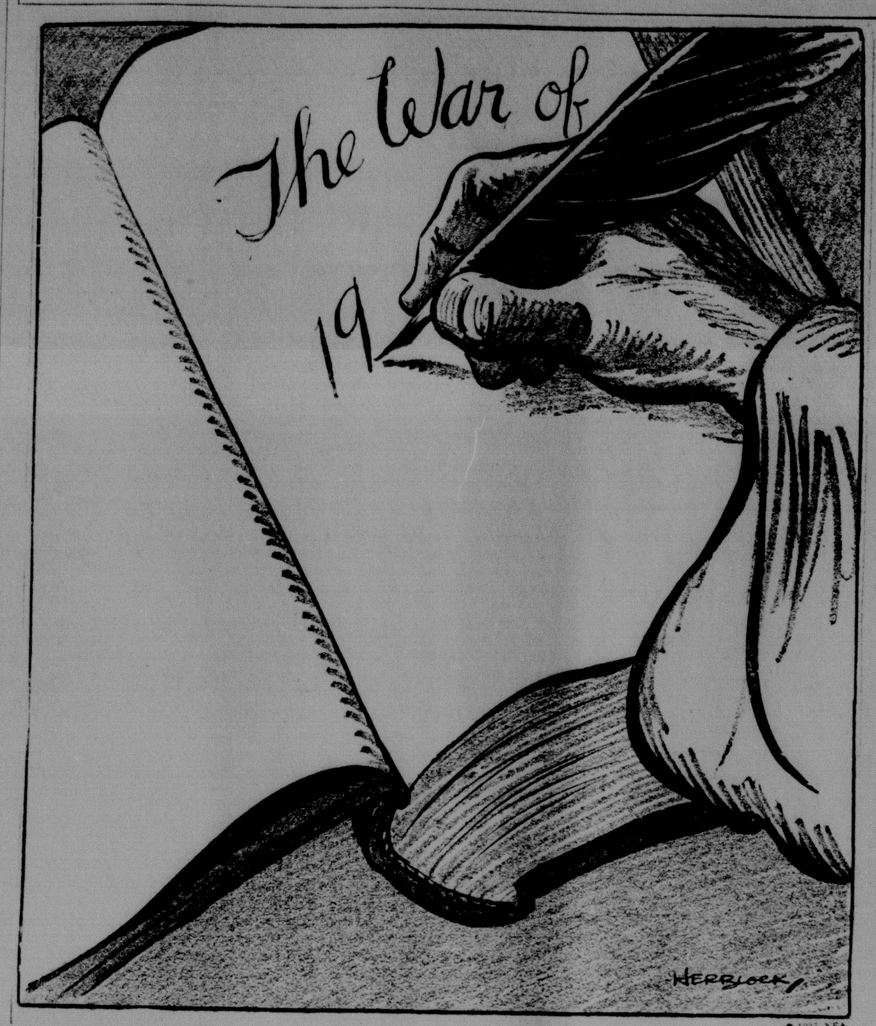

It's an endless chain that has developed no weak links since the Morgan County Fair was revived nearly a score of years ago.

Pernicious Anemia, Once Fatal, Now Can Be Cured With Extracts

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

While several factors may produce conditions in the body similar to those of pernicious anemia, a series of investigations, culminating in the work of Dr. Minot and Whipple which earned them the Nobel prize, has led to the solution of what used to be an unsolved problem of medical science.

There was a time when practically everyone with pernicious anemia died of it. For some reason, the blood cells failed to form in suitable amounts; secondary symptoms set in, affecting the nervous system and the digestion, and the patients died.

Nowadays, it is believed that the condition is caused by failure of the stomach to secrete an important factor, which results in stopping development of red blood cells.

The person who has pernicious anemia usually has fine, often silvery gray or mud-colored hair, slightly yellow skin and whites of the eyes, sore tongue, and sometimes tenderness over the gall-bladder. There may be slight swelling of the ankles and, later, a development of nervous symptoms, showing that degenerations are occurring in the spinal column.

Why the body fails to develop the necessary factor for stimulating formation of red blood cells is not known. It has been suggested that an infection may be responsible or, possibly, that there is an actual failure of the body, in its growth, to continue to develop certain glandular products.

As investigation of this disease continued, it occurred to the Boston investigators that there was something in the dietary that was important in relation to formation of red blood cells. At first they fed raw liver, and then cooked liver, to victims of this disease, and the response of the blood-forming organs was immediate. The blood began to improve in its red cell content.

When it was found that people became nauseated after eating too much raw liver, and that they quickly tired of cooked liver, whether it was boiled, fried, or mixed in liver cocktails, chemists began to study the liver to see if they could isolate a specific substance of value. Extracts eventually were prepared in the form of dry, tasteless powders which are extremely potent in stimulating formation of red blood cells.

Today there are preparations which may be injected under the skin, or even into the veins, and which will bring about the necessary stimulation.

At the same time, because of the symptoms related to the stomach, investigators in the University of Michigan developed extracts of the wall of the stomach which also are found to be potent in stimulating red blood cell formation.

THE WORLD IN A WEEK

A REVIEW

A LITTLE BOY WAS FOUND this week. A boy who, less than three weeks ago was convalescing from a cold in a happy, holiday-decked home. As his presents lay beneath the Christmas tree and he sat talking with his brother and sister on the night of December 27, a rough, unkempt man broke into the Mattson home, taking 10-year-old Charles out into a night of suspense and despair that was to lengthen into more than a fortnight of frenzied activity for his return.

A young rabbit hunter found him. Found his broken and beaten body frozen to the snow, unclothed. He had undergone terrible torture before death came.

His father, a Tacoma, Washington, doctor, had made every effort to comply with the demands of the person or persons responsible. J. Edgar Hoover's G-men exercised every skill and crime method possible without endangering, they believed, the life of the boy. News accounts made it plain that the abductor would not be molested in collection of the ransom and return of the boy.

All their efforts were unavailing, and this week President Roosevelt pledged every man and all facilities of the crime detection bureau in the chase for the kidnaper.

The Lindbergh exodus to England was made comprehensible by the decision of the Mattsons to leave Tacoma for a "secluded rest spot."

The question mark in the case is the kidnaper. What type of mind, what degenerate nature, what parents could have been responsible for an individual who committed a crime like this? Somewhere, perhaps a hundred years before this criminal was born, lies the responsibility for his action.

Going back to such a source does not in the least justify him. He deserves the extreme penalty of the law—and more. But, nevertheless, society, somewhere, failed in its obligation to posterity by rearing such a man and allowing his impulses and actions to go unguided.

This week, the arms of a mother in Tacoma are empty. All the G-man efficiency and the ultimate crackling of electric chair current cannot satisfy their longing for a little brown haired boy.

Talk of building bigger and better prisons, of imposing more death sentences and issuing less paroles should fade before a resolve to build better manhood and give social forces for that purpose a freer hand for their work.

ON THE OTHER SIDE of the United States, detectives executed a quicker job of sleuthing, apprehending the bath-tub slayer of Mrs. Mary Robinson Case in thirty-six hours. Major Greene, a negro porter, finally confessed the New York apartment killing after being confronted with overwhelming evidence amassed by the officers.

GENERAL MOTORS and the automotive workers reached a truce in strike activities that have bound up one of the nation's largest industries, with leaders on both sides predicting a final settlement in quick time.

Violence flared at Flint, Michigan, this week, drawing more than 2,000 national guards into the city made famous by the line, "F. O. B. Flint, Mich."

MARTIN JOHNSON, intrepid explorer of jungles, made this comment as he embarked on a plane trip with his wife to California. "America, probably because it is the most civilized place in the world is the most dangerous."

Thursday morning at dawn, he lay dead in a Los Angeles hospital, the victim of another in the tragic series of airliner crashes in the west. His wife, seriously injured, bore the news bravely and insisted that she would carry on the lecture and exploration work of her husband.

One other death resulted from the wreck, with eleven others hurt, some critically.

In Mexico, Friday, an airman sighted the fourth plane casualty in that country crashed in the midst of a jungle with its nine occupants believed dead. The airline stated that it would take Indians and soldiers weeks to reach the wreckage.

THE PRESIDENT wants six more assistants and desires to abolish many of the powers in the present office of comptroller general who acts as purse string "tightener." Mr. Roosevelt would also create two new government agencies. This plan of reorganization is not, he explained, thought of in the light of economy but of "efficiency."

Despite the huge Democratic majority in congress, a chorus of opposition arose this week to the proposed "reorganization."

FIVE DRUG DEALERS were shot in the back of the head this week in China, carrying on the edict of the government of "be cured—or die." Piles of opiates and other drugs were burned ceremoniously to impress the people.

A commentator noted that not even promise of death could stop the traffic, and the most outstanding reason a rather pitiful one—that, somehow, the rice bowl must be filled.

Amateur Broadcast During Storm Heard In Fresno, California

Franklin Resident, Spending Winter on Coast, Sees Item in Newspaper

W5AKV, call letters of a local amateur radio broadcaster, had his message sent out during the sleet storm of a week ago heard in Fresno, California, according to a letter received here Saturday from J. Williard Dodsworth of Franklin, who is spending the winter months in Oakland, California.

An item, appearing in the Oakland, California Tribune and transmitted by the Associated Press over its California circuit, recalls some of the troubles of the city during its period of isolation.

Operator Greer of the CCC camp, assisted by local operator Allen Kelly with apparatus loaned by Lieut. Schwarm of the CCC camp transmitted a number of messages to officials of the Illinois Power and Light company outside the storm area during the period when the city was shut off from all outside communications, aiding the outside officials in bringing electrical energy into the city.

Mr. Dodsworth said that he plans to remain in California until April 1, after which he expects to return to his home at Franklin.

Service Shops in City Do $274,000 Business in 1935

Census Bureau Reports on Personal and Business Services Here

Washington, D. C. — The 87 so-called shops, of Jacksonville, which include paint shops, barber and beauty shops, undertakers, and others rendering nothing but personal or business services, did an annual gross business of $274,000 during 1935, the census bureau of the department of commerce made known Saturday.

The survey was made entirely separate from the retail business survey made during the same year.

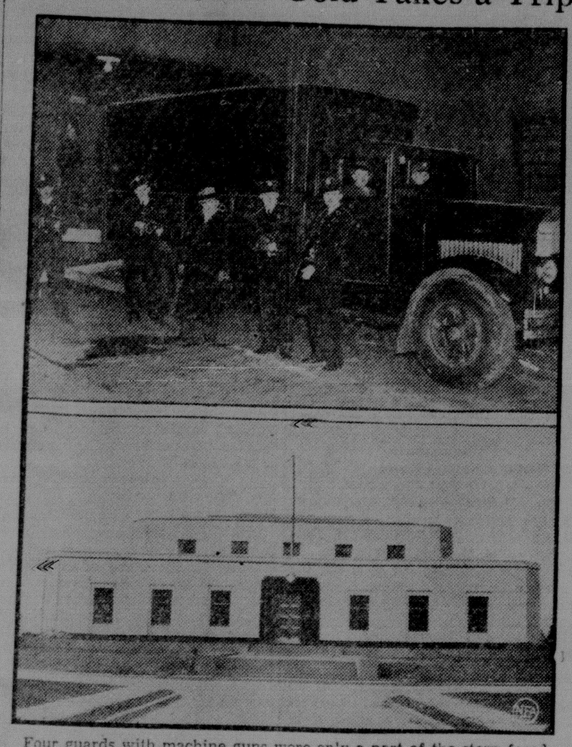

These shops, the report shows, had 100 owners and part owners who devoted the major portion of their time to their business, while the total of 86 people were employed in the various establishments. These employees received a joint annual income during 1935 of $52,000 or an average of $604.38 per year.

Altogether the 136 Morgan county service shops received a gross income in 1935 of $337,000.

Cass county's 77 service shops received a gross income of $96,000 Greene county with its 102 shops took in $167,000; Pike county with 165 service shops had gross receipts amounting to $221,000, while Scott county's 102 establishments had total receipts of $67,000 for 1935.

Half Billion in Gold Takes a Trip

Four guards with machine guns were only a part of the stern-faced contingent which guarded half a billion dollars in gold bullion when it was transferred from the Philadelphia mint to the new federal repository at Fort Knox, Ky. The upper picture shows a truck leaving the mint with 78 of the precious gold bars, which weighed nearly a ton and a half. The 78 bars in each truck load were worth a million dollars. The lower photo shows the impregnable granite, steel, and concrete "pillbox" which Uncle Sam has built as a safeguard in case of war and against theft. From the trucks, the bullion was loaded on four mail cars and it was sent to Fort Knox by the government's own registered mail.

Prisoner Stays in Jail; No Room at State Farm for Him

Jersey Offender on Parole, But Violates It; Charles Noble Passes Away

Jerseyville—Russell Woolsey, who is booked for a year's stay at the state penal farm in Vandalia, remains in the Jersey county jail awaiting the time when congested conditions at Vandalia will permit his entrance there.

Woolsey took a plea of guilty in November, 1936, to the charge of passing a bad check. County Judge Fred W. Howell, hearing the plea, sentenced Woolsey to one year at the Vandalia farm and assessed a fine of $25. At the time of the sentence accommodations at the "peanut" farm were limited and the defendant was paroled to Sheriff Floyd Darr.

On December 24th Woolsey was rearrested, charged with intoxication and another misdeed. His parole was revoked by Judge Howell and a mittimus issued for his commitment to the state farm. He will be taken to Vandalia as soon as the congested condition at the prison is relieved.

Chas. Noble Dies

Charles Noble, seventy-seven year old resident of Otterville Township died at his home near Grafton, Friday morning, January 15th, just ten days following the death of his sister, Miss Addie Florine Noble who passed away at her home in Jerseyville on Tuesday morning, January 5th.

Mr. Noble had been ill for some time and was unable to attend his sister's funeral.

Mr. Noble is survived by two sisters, Miss Ruth Noble of Jerseyville and Mrs. Mary Calhoun of near Grafton; and two brothers, George of Otterville and Jay Noble of the Grafton vicinity.

Gets Gravel Contract

George Hoffstetter of the Staunton Tie and Lumber Company stated this week that this firm has received the contract to furnish the crushed stone for the streets of Fidelity. The work is being done as a PWA project and a total of 450 tons of the crushed stone will be used.

A gas tax project providing for the placing of crushed rock on a 4½ mile stretch of road from Fidelity to Kemper has just been completed and the 5,000 tons of stone used there were also furnished by the Staunton Tie and Lumber company of Jerseyville.

This rock is secured from a quarry in the Fieldon vicinity.

Miss Kinsella had been visiting at the home of a neighbor, Mrs. Oscar Long and was enroute home when she slipped on the slippery sidewalk and fell, turning her ankle.

She was taken to her home and when examined by a physician it was found her left wrist had been fractured in the fall.

Illinois College Defeats McKendree; Beardstown Wins Tournament

Local Squad Piles Up Early Advantage Over Bears; Hold Giant Center To One Basket

Illinois College Blueboys played a steady game last night to turn back the visiting McKendree Bears 34 to 27, in a Little Nineteen basketball skirmish that kept the Jacksonville collegians well up in the top flight. Three and one is now the record of the hard-working Hilltoppers.

The Blueboys didn't waste any time in making a bid for victory, grabbing the lead at the outset and holding it all the way through, although the score was uncomfortable several times from the standpoint of local fans. Illinois by half time had doubled their advantage over the Bears at 14 to 7, but couldn't maintain that percent in the second half.

Herb Scheffler, Illinois center, did very little shooting during the evening, leaving the firing to his mates while he stuck like a leech to Manis, McKendree's giant center, who boasts an altitude of 6 feet, 6 inches. As a result of Scheffler's personal attention, the towering center was held to a measly field goal.

V. Fletcher, Illinois guard, paced the attack with 12 points, all of them made on snappy drives for the basket.

McKendree's teamwork was disrupted to a considerable extent by a tight Illinois defense. When the Bears got their paws on the ball, they cut loose from all angles in an effort to register a lucky basket.

Watts and Scott came through with several baskets last night at a time they were needed.

In the opener of a double program at the Illinois School for the Deaf gym, the Gem City Business college of Quincy defeated the Illinois College Freshmen 34 to 27. But the yearlings had no reason to hang their heads with shame, as they were up against exceptional brilliant competition.

Bernbrock, one of the Gem City guards, was a member of the championship Quincy Academy team that performed here a few years ago at the state Catholic school tournament. John Bingaman, one of the forwards on the business college squad, was an all-state selection in 1934 when Quincy high won the prep school championship.

Illinois Defeats Iowa Five 42-28

Illini Outclass Hawkeyes In Every Department

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Illinois' basketball team defeated Iowa 42 to 28 before 6,700 fans tonight, the Illini outclassing the Hawkeyes in every department.

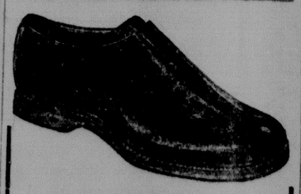

Taking an 11 to 3 lead within the first ten minutes of play, Illinois was in full command of the battle to the finish. At the half the Illini had a 17 to 12 margin.

Relying on an offense in which they worked the ball in coolly for clean shots, the victors repeatedly stalled for an opening and then made the most of it to stay comfortably in front. Wally Gaddis, Iowa forward, made all of his 11 points in the last half and only his spectacular performance prevented the second stanza from being a rout.

Illinois started the game with two regulars missing from the lineup—Henry and Nesbit. In the opening minutes of the second period, however, Henry started the Illini offense rolling again by bagging two long field goals.

White Sox Looking Forward to Pennant

Comiskey Predicts Winning Season; Lead from Start

Chicago.—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox, in whom thousands of never-say-die fans have been investing their loyalty for many gloomy seasons, are getting ready to pay off next summer.

Lou Comiskey, genial White Sox owner, confidently predicted today that, barring too many bad breaks through injuries or illness, his club will win the American League pennant—"Yankees or no Yankees."

"And what's more," he said, "we'll lead the race from start to finish."

'We made a fine showing last season, when we were badly crippled through most of the drive. Monte Stratton was out for an appendicitis operation. Luke Appling was hurt, as were Rip Radcliff and several others. We finished just about in a tie for second place and were whipping the Yankees at the end of the season, and we'll whip them again next season."

Comiskey made it clear he isn't going to let anything interfere with his plans to get the Sox away to a flying start.

"Holdouts?" he grinned. 'I haven't any right now, regardless of the talk going around. Appling always puts off signing a contract. Radcliff and Jackie Hayes are just talking things over. Zeke Bonura may develop into a holdout. He's a swell fellow, but just doesn't know what he wants. But we'll be ready.

"I realize the Yankees are a fine club, with a powerful punch. But they haven't our pitching staff and that will tell the story. Win, lose, or draw, the Sox always have been loyally supported for many years. The old man (the late Charles A. "The Old Roman" Comiskey) spent a lot of money trying to give the fans a real team. The Sox always have been scrappy, and we'll be that way again next summer.

"There's a lot of grief owning a ball club, but a pennant next summer will amply repay not only the fans but myself and my whole organization."

MILLIKIN LOSES

Decatur, Ill., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Northern State Teachers college won its third straight Illinois intercollegiate conference basketball victory tonight, defeating Millikin, 42 to 26. Northern led from the start and had a 24-13 margin at the half. Hellman paced the victors with five baskets with Glynn scoring four for Millikin.

Reappoint Kipke Michigan Coach

Announcement Quiets Rumors on Job

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 16.—(AP)—The University of Michigan athletic board of control tonight announced the reappointment for next year of Harry G. Kipke, head football coach.

The board's announcement, which it said was made to "set at rest rumors" regarding the Michigan coaching position, also listed members of the advisory coaching staff, named with the approval of Fielding H. Yost, director.

Michigan's football team failed to win a Western Conference game last fall, and finished its season with only one victory, that scored over Columbia.

The board left undetermined the position of line coach, which it said would be filled on recommendation of the head coach, on approval of Yost. Franklyn C. Cappon was named assistant line coach, Bennie Oosterbaan end coach and Wallie Weber backfield coach.

Vines Whips Perry In Straight Sets

Detroit, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Ellsworth Vines, showing no trace of his recent illness, whipped Fred Perry in straight sets, 14-12, 6-2, 6-1, before 6,500 spectators here tonight to draw within one match of evening the count in their professional tennis tournament.

Perry never was able to make his shots count after the tall Californian took the lead in the 25th game and then broke through the former amateur champion's service for the set.

Vines, who lost three successive matches to Perry before his first victory at Pittsburgh last night, was in full control of his ground strokes tonight and frequently maneuvered the Briton out of position for fast placements. After some difficulty with his service, Vines started to place it with regularity, in shots difficult for Perry to handle.

White Hall Puts Up Battle But Bell, Stephenson Tumble Ball Through Hoop; Name Stars

Semi-finals
White Hall 38; Winchester 17.
Beardstown 38; Nebo 24.
Third Place
Nebo 36; Winchester 21.
Championship
Beardstown 31; White Hall 22.

Winchester — Beardstown's determined basketball players meeting everything that came their way, stormed through the final game of the Winchester invitational tournament before a gymnasium full of fans here Saturday night to defeat White Hall, the defending title holders and as stubborn a foe as the Tigers have met this year, by a 31 to 22 score.

The fans were still shouting when the final shot was fired, cheering for White Hall's spirited rally and Beardstown's equally fast bit of caging as one of the most successful tournaments sponsored by the Winchester Community high school came to a close. Except during the awarding of the trophies, and naming the ten outstanding players of the tournament, for which the crowd remained, the gymnasium rocked with noise as the two outstanding teams fought it out for the gold trophies, one a huge basketball figure with two smaller figures on a black base, and the second place trophy, a large statue of a single basketball player.

Beardstown couldn't be sure of the title until the last four minutes, when they began to feel they were secure with an eight point lead. As rapidly as White Hall scored, the Tigers broke a man loose for a shot, or followed up a shot to push in the rebound, and the Maroons, who went down for the first time this year, were unable to stave off the defeat.

Ball Handling Does It

Classy ball handling told the story of the championship, with Harold Bell, who played his last game for the Tigers, and Stephenson, lanky center, piling in the points, "Stits" Lindley, the generalissimo of the Tiger forces, covered himself with glory in directing the team to the title.

All three of these boys were named among the ten outstanding players of the tournament, along with Dean Fair, White Hall's high scoring forward, and "Alley-Oop" Wendell, White Hall's center. Murphy, Griggsville center; Quinn, Winchester, forward; N. Franklin, Turnbeaugh, Nebo stars, and Parks, center from Milton, were also named among the first ten.

Beardstown appeared on the verge of making a run-away affair of the game in the first quarter, but the score fails to indicate the closeness of the game. Buckets by Bell and Stephenson in the last two minutes of the opening period gave the Tigers an 8-4 margin, but Fair went into action along with Wendell to pull the Maroons back to a tie score during the second period.

Wendell was removed from the game about mid-way of the quarter when he acquired his third personal foul, but the loss didn't seem to bother the Maroons. They kept on Beardstown's heels until just before the end of the period when Lindley sent a long shot whistling through the cords to make the count 15-12.

Widen Margin

Play speeded up when the second half opened, but Beardstown sank the shots while White Hall missed its opportunities. The Tigers also spent some uncomfortable minutes as their shots for the hoop went sailing across the bankboard without touching the threads, but they held a five point lead, 19-14 at the end of the period.

Beardstown's attempt to play their slow break game met with an instant shift from a zone defense to a man-to-man defense on the part of White Hall, and play during the final period was fast and furious. Forced to hit a fast pace, Beardstown met the challenge with a long pass and quick shooting attack that White Hall was unable to overcome.

Harry Allen, in holding Bell to ten points, kept the Beardstown star backed up along the sidelines where he was unable to get off his famous fade-away shot. Bell did most of his scoring on quick breaks, going under the hoop at a fast clip to ring up the points.

Winchester dropped the game for third place to Nebo's fast moving team, 36 to 21. The Wildcats, tired by their exertions against Roodhouse and White Hall, were unable to get their shots to go down, and found the Nebo lads flying all around the court and connecting on fast moving shots that were almost impossible to guard.

Semi-Finals Hard Fought

Both Beardstown and White Hall had their work cut out for them to get into the finals, but Beardstown probably had an easier time than the Maroons. Winchester's scrappy little Wildcats, playing with only the courage of their stout hearts and excellent ball handling against a team much superior in size, gave the lanky Maroons a battle for a half before wilting before the onslaught of speed the Maroons turned on to widen the scoring gap.

White Hall tied up Little Johnny Quinn, holding him scoreless from the field, but they couldn't muzzle Hazelrigg, who alone of the Wildcats was able to hit the bucket more than once from the field.

White Hall, with Fair and Wendell leading the way, turned on the steam for a while in the third quarter to put the Maroons out in front. They had bided their time through the first half, going scoreless in the first period when Winchester's guards worked the ball around in the middle of the court and made occasional thrusts toward the goal, but in the second half, the defending champs used their speed to whip out to a comfortable lead.

Beardstown likewise used its height to keep the ball away from Nebo. The Pike county lads weren't disturbed by their failure to get the ball, but their fast break wouldn't break fast enough to get the ball into scoring territory before Beardstown guards closed up the territory.

Stephenson and Musgrove, the team's two giants, and Bell, the team's hot shot, led the scoring parade.

Secretary of State Puts Out Word Over State Police Radio

January 20 has been set as the deadline for owners of automobiles to secure their 1937 license plates, according to Harry Doolin of the state police force, who said that word had been sent out over the state highway police radio system to all officers.

Doolin said the word was sent out on orders of Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes. There might be some delay in enforcing the order, he said, because of the sleet storm and the subsequent ice coating over the highways, but he stated that the drive to round up persons still using their 1936 licenses would be made earlier this year than last.

This year's plates have been displayed in larger numbers than usual for this early in the year.

Rev. Williams Talks To College Group

Discusses Belief in Immortality at Meeting of Philosophy Club

The MacMurray Philosophy club had as its speaker Friday evening, Reverend Morgan Williams, pastor of Grace M. E. church, who discussed the subject, "The Philosophy of a Belief in Immortality". He based his interpretation of immortality upon a recently published book, "After Death" by Weatherhead.

Belief in immortality was presented as the logical result of reason, as well as the outcome of spiritual experience. An interesting and different view on the question came from his idea of the conventional heaven and hell as only temporary preludes to an eventual, everlasting universal salvation or consummation.

The meeting, attended by college students and towns-people, was informal, and was followed by group discussion. In the business session new officers were chosen for the coming semester. Betty Hansen was chosen president, and Betty Brown, secretary-treasurer. Hazel Thomson is the outgoing president.

87 Students at Illinois College on List; Give number in Schools

Pocket money for approximately 295 high school and college students of Morgan county to the tune of $2,589 each month will be provided for part-time work after class hours by the National Youth Administration for Illinois during the remainder of the winter term of school, it is shown in figures just released by William J. Death of J. H. Hawk Removes Pioneer

Merritt Resident Spent Practically All of Life In Same Community

The death of John Hardin Hawk of Merritt recently removed one of the pioneer residents of that community. Mr. Hawk was born September 6, 1847, in a log cabin on the Jackson Hawk estate, and was reared in a home erected on the same estate. Practically all of his life was spent there.

JOHN HARDIN HAWK

Mr. Hawk was reared in the environment of the early and often rough element of frontier life. There was a strong moral, intellectual and religious atmosphere in the home, a back ground that speaks plainly of deeply ingrained religious ancestry who probably came from Europe because of religious persecution. His family was noted as God fearing and truth loving people.

Mr. Hawk's education began in the country school, then Winchester and later Eureka college. The quest for knowledge never departed from him. His zeal and zest for truth and better ways of doing things grew with him stronger as the years, came even down to the end of his life. He never lived in the past, always in the living present. Endowed with a keen, and well balanced mind, good judgment that he cultivated all his life.

As a citizen he had the courage of his conviction, doing what he believed right and for the welfare of the community. He was deeply interested in all upbuilding of schools and moral well being, gladly paying taxes and contributing to the church.

He believed the people should support church and state and not the government support the people.

As a neighbor he was unsurpassed, honest and upright, extending the hand to help. His word was as good as his bond.

A happy marriage was the beginning of an outstanding home. The law of kindness was in their hearts, and as the six children arrived to brighten the home increasing their responsibility, deepening their love, enlarging joy and devotion, they ripened and matured into noble characters.

Addressing the decedent's children after Mr. Hawk's death Rev. George W. Wetzel said:

"What a heritage your parents have left you. Its worth will increase and become more precious as the years pass and become more resplendent until the perfect day.

"To live a noble, pure, devoted industrious life, is to live a successful life, more precious than gold."

One daughter, Edna, wife of Norman Campbell, preceded him in death May 30, 1917. His wife died April 14, 1936.

The surviving children are Mrs. J. L. Gillham of the Manchester community, Georgie, Albert and Ella at home and Mrs. S. P. Smith of St. Louis, Mo.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

"Sample" Doesn't Promise So Well for Airtight Neutrality Bill . . . Why Pick on Spain and Ignore Other Combatants? Ask Sideline Observers . . . Steam Roller Worked in Grand Style in Shoving Through Emergency Resolution.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal and Courier Washington Correspondent

Washington.—In ordinary times it would be almost impossible to pass a bill providing that all members of Congress be painted with red and green stripes and paraded down Pennsylvania avenue in that costume. But these are not ordinary times.

All you need do to insure victory for such a proposal is tag it "neutrality legislation."

Never was there such a popular issue in the Capitol. It was so popular that the Senate voted 80 to 0 and the House voted 406 to 1 to embargo arms, ammunition, and implements of war to Spain, though members had no printed or mimeographed copies of the bill before them, no committee had considered the measure, and many members voted aye while holding their noses.

The administration's steam-roller tactics, Roosevelt's eagerness to make a witch-hunting grandstand play to American peace-lovers over export of an admitted pile of aerial junk by one Mr. Cuse, the alacrity with which Congress jumped through the hoop at the magic word and the actual source of this piece of legislation—all these factors combine to make it seem increasingly likely that the permanent neutrality legislation promised for this session will be by no means the McCoy, insofar as it pretends to guarantee keeping us out of war.

Flouts World Law

The immediate practical effect of the law is to bust contracts between American citizens and the duly constituted Spanish government, with which this country theoretically has friendly relations.

That reverses precepts of international law, yet it unquestionably will be satisfactory to the overwhelming mass of American citizens who want no part of the Spanish mess.

But the question why the law wasn't written to apply to Germany, Russia, Italy, France, Portugal—nations in the Spanish war up to the neck—and other countries which may or may not be pouring arms into Spain presumably is best known to manufacturers of munitions, who are doing a thriving export business.

Sales of planes and parts to Germany for the first six months of 1934, the last reported period, were $1,445,000—and then on the increase.

Hardly any of the members who voted for the bill knew where it came from, so they might as well be told. The measure was concocted in the State Department, where the dominating clique is largely pro-Fascist.

Picks on Spain Only

Instead of making the existing neutrality act applicable to all civil wars, the new law merely picks on Spain. The president remains free to permit shipments to any other nation where there may be a civil war, regardless of whether those who benefit most therefrom are government forces or rebels, Fascists or Communists, Norwegians or Senegambians.

Also, American interests may still export oil, copper, and similar materials of war to Spain or anywhere else. These materials can be just as useful to a belligerent nation engaged in murdering persons as actual ammunition, sometimes more so.

And the traffic would be just as likely to get us into war. The State Department opposed embargo on oil to Italy during the Ethiopian war on the ground that this would have been an unfriendly act toward Italy—Ethiopia being inaccessible to our oil.

Too Much Steam Roller

The leading advocates in Congress of real neutrality—Senators Bennett Clark of Missouri, Gerald Nye of North Dakota, and Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, and Representative Maury Maverick of Texas and several of the Progressives and Farmer-Laborites from Wisconsin and Minnesota, respectively—joined in urging general legislation which would apply to all nations and thus cover all those now unofficially at war in Spain.

But the steam roller ran right over them and even the insurgents didn't care or dare to vote against it.

The same group will be watching for the White House-State Dapartment permanent neutrality proposal—like so many hawks. But the obvious likelihood is that whatever is proposed will go through.

The State Department crowd has never indicated a desire for "neutrality" legislation which would do much more than allow it a chance to play favorites in the international chess game.

Duke of Kent Has Received Protests

London, Jan. 16—(AP)—The newspaper Sunday referee said tonight the Duke of Kent has received a large number of letters attacking him for his visit to a phrenologist Jan. 2 with Mrs. William Allen, pretty wife of a wealthy businessman.

The publication said "ridiculous gossip which is causing pain and anger to the Royal family" grew out of the visit.

"Mrs. Allen," the Sunday Referee declared, "is a beautiful society leader, formerly well-known as Paula Gillibrand and later as the Marquise De Casa Maury.

"Mrs. Allen has known the Duke (The youngest brother of King George VI) since he was a junior officer in the navy and has been a frequent visitor to the Duke and Duchess of Kent's home in Belgrave Square.

"She mentioned the phrenologist casually to them and the Duke, eager for a visit, quite naturally accompanied Mrs. Allen.

"He had his 'bumps' read. This harmless incident was sized on and distorted.

Other London papers printed articles in a similar vein.

POLICEMAN'S SLAYER CAUGHT, CONFESSES

Chicago—(AP)—A city-wide manhunt for the slayer of Policeman Arthur Sullivan ended early today, Capt. Daniel Gilbert said, in the arrest and confession of Joseph Schuster, 30 year old paroled convict.

Capt. Gilbert, chief investigator for the state's attorney's office, said Schuster admitted shooting Policeman Sullivan to death on the stairway of an elevated railroad station as he was being taken into custody as a robbery suspect.

"I didn't want to go back to the stir," Schuster told Capt. Gilbert, the latter said. "The cop didn't find my gun and when I saw I'd have to use it to get away I just let him have it."

After the alleged confession police took the prisoner to the elevated station for a re-enactment of the slaying.

Police said Schuster was paroled from Pontiac reformatory March 10, 1934, after serving six years and six months for the robbery and shooting of a bank messenger.

LLOYDS REPORT

London, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Lloyds reported tonight three Russian steamers—Volga, Kara and Revolyutsioner—and the Danish steamer Nordsoen had been stopped in the Strait of Gibraltar by Spanish Fascist vessels.

The Kara was liberated and proceeded east, Lloyds said.

TOWNSEND HAS ONLY FEW FOR CONFERENCE

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Dr. Francis E. Townsend, frosty-haired California physician, mustered a handful of congressional followers in an "informal caucus" today to chart a new campaign for his old age pension plan.

About two dozen representatives directed Chairman Crosby (D-Pa) to name a seven-member committee to organize their fight in the house.

Not a single senator answered Townsend's summons, although he said 103 representatives and eight senators had been elected with his endorsement.

Dr. Townsend told newsmen he was "still in contempt" of a house investigating committee which he defied at hearings last year, but said he would appear in the District of Columbia federal court February 8 to face contempt charges.

Several Problems Not Settled Before Legislators Recess Until After Presidential Inaugural.

HUNT FLOOR LEADER

Springfield, Ill. — (AP) — As Democratic leaders turned toward Washington and the second Roosevelt inauguration, several problems involving house leadership of the inactive legislature were still unsettled today.

The biggest need was for a floor leader for the house majority of 85 Democrats. Several names have been discussed, but the man isn't to be named until late January or early February, when first introduction of bills will give the 60th General Assembly something to do.

All of the state officials left Springfield soon after the inauguration ceremonies Monday that marked the official start of the second Horner administration. Most of them won't return until after President Roosevelt starts his new term on Wednesday.

Meanwhile the legislators, who seldom get down to serious business during the cold weather months, have done nothing except to be sworn in, draw pay for two years in advance, watch the inauguration and complete the preliminary organization. Sessions are to be perfunctory until February 2.

The problem of the house leadership grew out of the refusal of Benjamin S. Adamowski of Chicago to act again in the capacity of floor spokesman. Adamowski rebelled because his Chicago colleagues let the speakership go to a downstater, Louie E. Lewis of Christopher.

Striving to maintain harmony and prevent factional strife, administration and Chicago Democrats looked over the downstate field in the search for a floor leader. Available material was low as the result of such veterans as Speaker John P. Devine of Dixon and Thomas P. Sinnett of Rock Island.

Some talk was that a first-termer might be named.

Frequently mentioned for the job was Schaefer O'Neil of Alton, who at 32 is two years older than Adamowski. O'Neill is starting his fourth term. Little was heard of the veteran F. W. Lewis of Robinson, Horner spokesman who lost out in the speakership race.

Speculation was that James P. Boyle of Chicago would continue as house appropriations chairman, rather than becoming leader. Another report was that a new job of speaker pro tem would be created for Boyle, who in the organization maneuvering was the local spokesman for Mayor Edward J. Kelly and Patrick A. Nash of Chicago.

Speaker Lewis was scheduled to return today to start in on the task of assignments to the standing house committees.

Senate committees were named by President Pro Tem George M. Maypole of Chicago before John Stelle took charge as lieutenant governor.

U. S. Steel Pilots Stocks to Advance

New York, Jan. 16—(AP)—The bellwether of many a bull market, U.S. Steel, came back today as a resplendent leader of the stock list.

In one of the fastest Saturday sessions since early November, "Big Steel" piloted an assortment of industrial stalwarts to new post-depression heights for gains of fractions to 2 points. There were a few much wider advances.

The upturn was attributed partly to hopes the General Motors strike would be settled at next week's conference and to signs large corporations are preparing for a continuance of business recovery throughout 1937 and longer.

Transfers of 1,705,240 shares compared with 1,448,562 last Saturday. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .6 of a point at 72.7, or within .1 of a point of equalling its 1936-37 peak.

Aiding the steels, in addition to an expected optimistic break in the automotive labor wrangle which would release large pent-up orders from this field, was the announcement the U.S. Steel corporation will spend $50,000,000 in expanding its Carnegie-Illinois plants.

Johns-Manville, at the same time, completed a program for plant improvements involving several million dollars and disclosed 100,000 shares of new stock would be issued to present holders at about $100 a share on the basis of 7½ for one.

Farm and Rural Interest

Experts Say Farmers' Incomes Increased During 1936; Comparison of Incomes for Several Years; Grain Supply at New Low Mark; Tree Planting Needed

Federal farm experts crawled out from a stack of statistics last week and announced that as a whole the nation's farmers showed financial gains in 1936.

Net income of farmers after deducting $4,230,000,000 for wages, interest, taxes, rent, supplies and other production costs was placed at $5,300,000,000.

The experts said this was 17 per cent larger than in 1935 and only 7 per cent less than the comparable 1929 income of $5,689,000,000.

They said the severe drought had damaged the corn and wheat belt incomes, but cotton was a bright spot in the tabulations, with both a larger crop and higher prices. The "white gold netted growers $955,000,000 compared with $737,000,000 in 1935.

Even the wheat crop, with a short spring wheat yield, showed a gain. The farm value was estimated at $624,000,000, more than $100,000,000 above the 1935 crop.

The short crop of potatoes showed a wider increase. It was valued at $367,000,000 against $231,000,000 the previous year.

The experts cited these estimates of gross farm income and income from actual cash sales for the last two years and the depression low of 1932:

Gross farm income, 1936: $9,530,000,000; 1935: $8,508,000,000; 1932: $5,337,000,000. Cash farm sales, 1936: $8,100,000,000; 1935: $7,201,000,000; 1932: $4,377,000,000.

They said these advances, however, did not tell the whole story. While income went up 12 per cent, expenses increased only 6 per cent, they said, so that the "pay realized by the farmer for his work and capital in 1936 had a purchasing power apparently the highest in any of the last 13 years for which these income estimates are available."

The total volume of all farm products for 1936 was 3 per cent larger than in 1935.

Farm Crop Supply At New Low Mark

The total supply of corn, wheat, and oats on Illinois farms January 1, 1937, was the smallest reported for that date in the past 10 years, with the exception of 1935, according to the January report of the Illinois and Federal Departments of Agriculture. Each month since harvest prices have been the highest in several years and offerings have been liberal on every price advance, according to Senior Statistician A. J. Surratt.

Farm stocks of wheat at 4,372,000 bushels was the smallest reported in 11 years. They compare with 4,810,000 bushels January 1, 1936, and the average for 1928-32 of 8,523,000 bushels. With the exception of 1935, the farm stocks of corn January 1 were the lowest since records were started in 1927. They totaled 132,612,000 bushels compared with 236,780,000 a year ago and the 5-year average of 196,167,000 bushels. Active demand from Missouri river territory for Illinois corn is reported, with truck movement heavy. Farm stocks of oats January 1 were 55,780,000 bushels or 17 percent less than a year ago and 29 percent less than the 5-year average January 1 farm stocks. Feeders have shown a tendency to substitute oats in view of relatively high prices for other feed grains.

Farm Woodland Planting Needed

While farm woodland planting is progressing at a rapid rate under the fine cooperation of the states, farmers, and federal extension service, it has still some distance to go to meet fully the need of erosion control and wood production. This opinion is expressed by Lyle F. Watts, Regional Forester of the North Central Region of the United States Forest Service in speaking of the fine results already achieved. Previous to 1935 some 312,613 acres were planted to trees by farmers in this region of nine states. In 1935, 5,692 farmers cooperated in planting 15,052 acres more. More than half of this planting was done in Ohio. These figures do not include additional extensive planting of forest trees on farms in cooperation with the Soil Conservation Service.

Mr. Watts called attention to the idle land so common in the more rugged or rocky parts of the region, and not uncommon even in the finest farming areas. There still are countless badly eroded spots which could be protected by brush or trees, and many non-agricultural areas could well be put to work raising trees. Buildings and crops could thereby be protected from the wind and tests show that heating requirements in a house unprotected by trees are tripled when cold winds reach a velocity of 20 miles per hour.

Desirable Features of New Pasture Plants

Searching for pasture plants that will withstand drouth and other unfavorable conditions, Illinois farmers in attendance at Farm and Home Week at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, were told of the desirable features of bromegrass, orchard grass, tall oat grass and reed canary grass.

Species of plants naturally equipped to make a fair return under such unfavorable soil and climatic conditions as drouth, poorly drained fields, shady wood lots and poor soils were listed by V. G. Sprague, of the agronomy department of the agricultural college.

During the dry summer of 1936, bromegrass, a drouth-resistant grass recently introduced from the west and northwest, yielded nearly two tons of dry matter an acre as pasture, it was pointed out. Other dry weather plants listed were alfalfa, sweet clover and lespedeza.

Reed canary grass supplies a real need as a pasture plant for wet places, Sprague said. It grows well in swamps and also makes a high forage return on upland soil. At the university farm it produced two and one-half tons of dry matter during last summer's drouth. A common yield of hay is five tons, and yields as high as 13 tons have been recorded.

The outstanding shade-tolerant plant listed was orchard grass. Meadow fescue and rough stalk meadow grass were also classified as somewhat shade tolerant.

Plants best adapted to poor soils include tall oat grass, red top, Canada bluegrass, orchard grass, lespedeza and sweet clover. These plants respond markedly to fertilizer treatments and make increased growth on rich soil, but have their place on soil that gives little return from Kentucky bluegrass, alfalfa and other legumes.

Livestock Trade Is Quiet to Unchanged

Chicago, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Hog buyers picked up the small open market supply at unchanged to 10 cents lower prices today. The $10.35 top matched yesterday's closing peak. Nothing was done in other branches of the livestock trade.

Declining hog values were in line with the week's trend that reflected a rather sharp break in wholesale fresh pork quotations, influenced to some extent by the auto strike, traders said. Although volume of receipts was 25,000 head below the previous week, hogs declined 25 to 40 cents. Fresh pork loins, wholesale, closed at 16 to 18½ cents per pound compared with 17½-21½ a week ago.

Expanding cattle and sheep supplies were partly responsible for the declines that took place in most classes offered in these markets.

Best steers and yearlings gained 25 to 40 cents to a twelve months peak of $14.40. Other grades predominated, however, and lost 25 to 50 cents.

Lamb values skyrocketed to a seven months peak of $11 on Tuesday but then reacted sharply, closing 10 to 15 cents net lower for the week. The closing peak was $10.60.

Weather Report Sends Wheat Up

Chicago, Jan. 16. — (AP) — Wheat edged upward in price here most of the time today, influenced by disquieting reports of domestic winter crop conditions southwest.

Possibilities of liberal takings of Canadian wheat on the part of Germany tended also to lift values. It was pointed out that Canada's new trade pact with Germany provides that 35 percent of Germany exchange shall be utilized for wheat.

A further stimulus was an authoritative unofficial estimate that the world carryover of wheat at the end of this season will be only about 300,000,000 bushels, the smallest total since 1925, and contrasting with an average of more than 700,000,000 bushels.

At the close, wheat was ¼ off to ¼ up compared with yesterday's finish, May 132¾-¾, July 115¾-⅞, Sept. 111⅞-112, corn at ¼ decline to an equal advance, May new 111-111⅛, July new 106¾-⅞, Sept. 102¾-⅞, oats ⅛-¼ down, May 43⅜-½, and rye ⅜ lower to 1¼ higher, May 1.10. In provisions, the outcome varied from 12 cents setback to a gain of 2 cents.

King without a country

by Robert Bruce

BEGIN HERE TODAY

PAUL I, King of Northumbra, becomes private citizen PAUL FERRONE when he abdicates for the love of ARDATH RICHMOND, Canadian-born actress. Paul's younger brother, JOSEPH, succeeds to the kingship.

With calm finality, Paul signs the formal abdication documents and then flies away to marry Ardath. They choose a charming villa on the Bay of St. Francis. Paul revels in his new freedom. He is deliriously happy with his bride. And then one day he walks into the nearby village of San Lorenzo and finds he is not free at all—the eyes of the curious, peasants, the whole world, are on him, prying. He flees homeward sick at heart.

Nights later he visits a casino with Ardath, meets the vacuous COUNTESS DI MARCO, the American playboy, REGGIE VAN TWYNE and MRS. VAN TWYNE. The evening wears on. Suddenly Mrs. Van Twyne, inebriated, peels her gown over her head and begins a fan dance.

Someone digs at Paul's elbow. A voice says, "Well, was it such a bargain—giving up a throne for . . . this?"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

The characters and situations in this story are wholly fictional and imaginary and are not intended to portray any actual persons or events.

CHAPTER IV

STARTLED, Paul spun about. There stood a short man in a tweed suit—a short man, profoundly tanned, with a little gray goatee, and with dark eyes that looked out of a network of fine wrinkles.

"Dr. Sonders!" said Paul. "Wherever did—"

"Where did I come from, and how did I get here?" said the little man, shaking the hand which Paul thrust at him. "I'm on my way back to the diggings in Guatemala. Stopped off to see the Marquis de Sauze and try to get a contribution out of him. He brought me over here. And, meanwhile, what about answering my question?"

Dr. Sonders was looking up quizzically. He had been Paul's tutor, or one of them, back in university days. Now he was one of the world's most famous archeologist. He was an outspoken, sardonic little man, awed by no one and impressed by nothing.

"Your question?" said Paul blankly.

"Yes. I asked you"—Dr. Sonders waved his hand vaguely at the chattering crowd—"if it was a good bargain, to exchange a throne for this?"

Paul looked about him. The air was hazy with tobacco smoke, heavy with that and with perfume, powder and the infinitely mixed aroma from the bar. People were beginning to look flushed and disheveled. Their voices were louder than need be, their laughter was a little shrill.

"Let's go outside in the air," said Paul. He guided the little scientist out to the veranda and found a little table by the railing. Out in the bay gleamed the lights of a cruise ship at anchor. The two men sat down and Dr. Sonders subjected Paul to a careful scrutiny.

"You needn't answer the question," said Dr. Sonders. "After all, there's only one answer you could possibly make."

"But it wasn't a fair question," objected Paul. "After all, Doctor, I didn't exchange my throne for—this."

"No? What did you exchange it for?"

". . . and he was like a beacon and a symbol to millions of this earth's tired people. He was real and his throne was real."

"I didn't 'exchange' it for anything, strictly speaking. But if you must make a bargain out of it, let's say I exchanged it for—for life, for freedom, for the chance to—to realize whatever potentialities I have for living."

"Hmmm. And all of this is life, freedom and the chance to realize your God-given potentialities?"

Paul colored. His old tutor could always make him feel like a stammering schoolboy who had scamped his lessons.

"That isn't fair, either, Doctor," he said. "You take one night at a frivolous night resort and make it stand for a whole career."

Dr. Sonders shook his head and thrust his goatee forward aggressively.

"Paul, Paul, it isn't just one night. I read the papers, my boy."

"The papers?"

* * *

"SURELY. You don't suppose that the people of Northumbra are left in ignorance of the way in which you are spending your time, do you? They get all the details—including, doubtless, some that are quite imaginary. But unless there is a great deal more of imagination in these accounts than I have ever known our newspapers to be guilty of, this night is a pretty fair sample, after all.

"I don't mean," he went on, raising a hand as Paul opened his lips to protest, "I don't mean that there's anything so terribly bad or abandoned about this crowd here tonight. There's no harm in them . . . not in most of them, anyhow. But Paul, Paul—I do hate to see pearls cast before swine."

"Meaning—?"

"Meaning this."

The doctor stroked his goatee and looked out over the bay at the lights of the cruise ship.

"Paul, I had a king. He was a fine young man, tall and handsome as a king should be, and he had a keen mind and a warm heart and his soul was clean. He sat in a high place and he was like a beacon and a symbol to millions of this earth's tired people.

"To these millions, Paul, that king was not an abstraction, and the throne he sat on was not merely a convenient figment of government. He was real and his throne was real, and together they meant much."

The doctor paused and stopped stroking his goatee. His eyes looked out from the wrinkles that the burning sun of the tropics had put about them, and they looked old and tired.

"I had a king, Paul, and he deserted me," he went on at last. "He left me because, as king, he might not marry the woman he loved. No, don't interrupt me, Paul. I know that the traditions, the prejudices and the laws which kept the empire of Northumbra from admitting an actress to its throne as queen are narrow and stupid. It was not fair or just, at all. But a king is a king to stand unfairness and injustice—yes, and loneliness and doubt and unhappiness too, if need be."

Again he paused.

"That part is as it may be," he said at last. "The decision was his to make, and—knowing him as I do—I am sure that he did not make it lightly. It is what comes after the decision that worries me now."

* * *

HIS eyes sought Paul's and found them, held them, bored relentlessly into the soul of the man who had once been monarch.

"But the time is so short," protested Paul at length. "After all, Doctor, it has only been six weeks since my abdication. What can I do, at this time? If I go out anywhere there are tourists and newspaper people and all sorts of idly curious gawkers to cluster around me. I almost fall over them. Can't I at least wait here until that sort of thing dies down a bit?"

"It will never die down," said the archeologist. "You will carry around with you the king you used to be, for the rest of your life. He will stand at your elbow wherever you go, and you will see his reflection in people's eyes to the end of your life."

Paul folded his arms on the little table and stared out over the dark bay. He had given his respect and love to this odd little scholar in his youthful, formative years; now he could only listen as the man talked, and feel miserably guilty. There was a long silence. At last Paul leaned forward and looked earnestly at the piercing eyes in the bronzed and wrinkled face.

"Grant that everything you say is true," he said. "What am I to do? My abdication is over and done with. I couldn't withdraw that even if I wanted to. What am I to do?"

"You paid a tremendous price for your freedom," said Dr. Sonders. "To make a good bargain out of it, you must make that freedom worth a tremendous lot to you. You must justify it—not so much by what you do, for you have given up your chance for doing, but by what you are."

The doctor looked at him sadly.

* * *

"I WILL tell you something," he said abruptly. "Your brother Joseph is on the throne of Northumbra now. You know Joseph—young, intense, serious, idealistic. His people are learning to love him. And already it is being said—in newspapers, magazines and so on—that his accession has changed the moral tone of the kingdom."

"Are you going to let that be your epitaph—the fact that your kingdom was made the better by your departure?"

Again he paused. Then he burst out:

"Get away from this! Put your mind to work, live with everything there is in you. If you can think of nothing better to do, come out to Guatemala and help me dig into the ruins of buried cities and lost civilizations, so that when you come to die you can at least know that you left the race a little wiser than you found it. Do that, do anything—but don't drift. For the sake of what you might be, Paul, don't become the prisoner of your lost crown and your own freedom!"

He gave the young man's shoulder a final squeeze, turned quickly, and was gone.

The Dunbar community center on South West street in Jacksonville continues to be popular as a recreational spot for young colored persons. Several musical programs were given during the last week, including special entertainment for the Lions club, Sherman school community club and First ward neighborhood meeting at the Jefferson school.

RESTORE 4,428 ACRE TRACT NEAR HAVANA AS REFUGE FOR GAME

Washington, Jan. 16. — (AP)—The biological survey announced today restoration of a 4,428 acre tract in the Illinois river bottom as a refuge for wild duck and geese.

It said a presidential order recently designated this tract in Mason county, Ill., as the chautauqua migratory waterfowl refuge. The survey said the area is one of the principal stopping places for waterfowl in their north-south flights over the Mississippi Valley flyway.

Officials said the area was flooded about ten years ago and has not been drained since. They said thousands of wild ducks and geese were killed there each season and shipped to Chicago and eastern markets in the old days of waterfowl market hunting.

The survey said about 18,000 canvas backs and several thousand redhead ducks remained in the area for several weeks last winter.

Fox Majestic Will Be Remodeled, Then New Name Adopted

Six Thousand Dollars Will Be Spent at Show House During Closed Period

Plans for extensive remodeling at the Fox Majestic theater on East State street, with a contest by which the theater will be given a new name, were announced last night by Al McClure, manager of the show house. An expenditure of about $6,000 will be made in improvements, both interior and outside.

"The Fox Majestic will close during the latter part of February for a period of four or five weeks, during the remodeling program," Mr. McClure said. "When it reopens, it will be under a new name, a name to be selected by someone in Jacksonville or in the surrounding community."

The theater manager said he will award a prize of $15 for the most suitable name for the reconditioned theater. The name should be short, catchy and distinctive, the manager said.

During the time the theater is closed a new front will be built, featured by the use of structural glass. A marque of attractive design is included in the plans.

The theater will be equipped throughout with upholstered chairs, taking the place of the uncushioned chairs now in use. A new sound system will be installed and the entire place repainted and decorated. The balcony will be enlarged to accommodate 50 additional patrons.

In announcing plans for the contest to rename the theater, the manager said that more than one name may be submitted by an individual. The suggestions for names should be placed in sealed envelopes with name and address, and left at the box offices of either the Fox Majestic or Fox Illinois theaters.

The Majestic theater was named by the late Green M. Luttrell, who opened the theater a number of years ago. Mr. Luttrell retired from business a few years before his death, disposing of his interests to the Fox corporation.
